TANKS TO REPLACE 6 FLOATING BATHS

Bids To Be Opened To-day in Move to Obey Health Board's Demand.

With the opening to-day of bids for the conversion of six of its floating baths into air-tight tanks the Department of Public Works will take steps to meet the drastic bathing regulations recently adopted by the Board of Health. The work will cost $12,500, which sum was appropriated by the Board of Aldermen a week ago.

It was said yesterday that it was hoped to have all the baths ready by the second week in July. Croton water will be used in all of them instead of river water, as in the past. By substituting Croton water there will be a compliance with the health regulations, which specify pure water.

Early in the spring, when some of the owners of private floating baths and bathing beaches rose up in arms against the drastic measures they pointed out that there would be no baths along the river front if they were put into effect. Instead of that being the case, there will be a delay of only a few weeks in their opening, and practically all are willing to make the changes.

At Donohue's office his secretary said the objectionable matter would be omitted. Donohue's possession of a long term lease was one of the snags which had to be contended with by the health officials. The same lease figured in other years in the bath problem.
